CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

Now that the Congressional recess is over and the National Legislature is once more back at work, your humble Representative finds it a pleasure to resume the weekly news letter—"With A Buckeye in Congress"—and hopes that its readers will find it both interesting and informative.

The Congress convened on Tuesday, September 14, following a two months recess. The House met only on Tuesday and Friday of last week in informal sessions in which no legislative business was transacted, although several House Committees held daily hearings on important measures. On the Senate side of the Capitol, most of the past week was taken up with hearings on proposed legislation to bar the drafting of fathers. High officials of the War and Navy Departments testified that it will be absolutely necessary to conscript something like a half million fathers between now and January first in order to meet needs of the armed services for soldiers and sailors. Such testimony was expected, as it is seldom that War and Navy Department officials publicly disagree with the plans and policies of their Commander-in-Chief and his Administration. Other testimony was submitted to indicate that needed manpower for military service can be obtained, without the necessity of drafting fathers by carefully combining and rechecking the lists of those deferred for occupational reasons, including the young men now holding civil positions in the Government. The House several months ago passed the Kilday Bill which would prohibit the drafting of fathers until after all eligibles in the higher classifications had first been called. The Kilday Bill is now pending before the Senate where Administration opposition has prevented it from consideration.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House, which is charged with the responsibility of writing a new tax bill to bring in some twelve to sixteen billion dollars in increased annual revenues, as requested by the President and the Treasury, will not begin immediate hearings on the measure as originally planned. It is rumored that the "powers that be" are requesting that such hearings be postponed until after the present bond selling campaign is over. The Treasury has submitted no definite program for raising the huge amount of increased revenues requested. Legislative leaders in the tax field are openly questioning the wisdom, as well as the possibility of increasing tax revenues as much as has been requested. Many are of the opinion that individual income taxes are already as high as people can stand; and that corporation taxes can be increased only slightly, if at all, without being destructive of business. There is some talk of a general sales tax, but the Administration is bitterly opposed thereto. So most observers predict that when the new tax bill is finally written the increase in tax revenues will be nearer three to five billion dollars a year than to the twelve to sixteen billion dollars requested by the President and the Secretary of the Treasury.

House and Senate Members returning from several weeks of visiting with their constituents, are almost unanimous in their interpretation as to how the people back home are feeling on public questions. First of all, they report, Americans everywhere are wanting to get on with the winning of the war, and are ready and willing to make any sacrifices necessary therefore. However, most citizens have reached the place where they are beginning to ask the reasons why for many governmental actions, and want to know that any sacrifices they are asked to make are necessary and essential. Secondly, the people are fed-up and disgusted with bureaucratic bungling on the home front. They are opposed to further regimentation and are determined to protect here at home the individual rights and liberties for which their sons and brothers are fighting overseas. Small business men are especially critical of the bureaucratic rules, regulations and edicts that are making it so difficult for them to remain in business. The farmers are insisting, if they are to meet the demand for increased food production, that agriculture be given a fair price for its products, which will make possible the obtaining of

Treasurer H. Fawcett Is Best Delinquent Tax Collector

County Treasurer Harold Fawcett announces the 1942 tax collection was exceptionally good and the county now has the lowest delinquent list since 1917.

Total charges on real estate and special assessments was $659,000 of which $624,000 was on real estate, including $589,000 the current charge, and $44,000 due in back taxes.

Current on special assessments was $19,000 with delinquents amounting to $15,000 making a total of $35,000 due in special taxes.

Cash collections amounted to $631,000 leaving a balance of $27,000 which is still unpaid. Unpaid real estate tax was $18,000 a reduction of 58.8 per cent in delinquency and unpaid special assessments total $9,000 a reduction of 40.3 per cent.

The combined unpaid balance of $27,000 is being paid by taxpayers under the Whittemore act, or ten year contract plan.

Forty-five purebred polled Hereford beef cattle were sold at auction Monday in Wilmington for an average of $448 per head.

Buyers from seven states attended the sale at which a 5-year old cow sold to the Circle M ranch, Senatobia, Miss., for the top price of $1,000.

C. C. Beam of Melvin and Sabina, formerly of Cedarville, was the largest Clinton county purchaser buying a foundation for his herd. In his list was Clinton Domino 7th, as his herd bull.

The top 10 cattle at the sale sold for an average of $699.50 and the top 25 Herefords brought an average of $583. The sale included 10 bulls and 35 females.

Owner Missed Out On Wood For Fuel

Harry Hampton made use of a large tree that had blown down across the highway east of town by having it cut in four lengths to supplement a shortage in fuel.

The wood was corded alongside the road fence and measured around ten cords. He expected to get it hauled to town but before a truck arrived a few days later, someone had evidently set fire to the wood and it was consumed without damage to any other property. There was no evidence of fire from any other quarter as the grass was not burned only around the spot where the wood was burned.

Yellow Springs Orders Sewerage Connections

Following a threat of the government to take 400 soldier students from Antioch College if Yellow Springs did not enforce sanitary regulations, the council on Tuesday at a special session took drastic means to enforce immediate sewerage connections for property where trunk lines are laid.

More protection must be provided for property not on trunk lines. The government order was said to be mandatory and requires immediate fulfillment or the soldier students will be sent elsewhere.

MORE JAMAICANS ARRIVE TO CUT CORN

Twenty-five Jamaicans arrived at the Farm Labor Camp at Bryan State Park this week. This makes a total of 190 men in this camp who are working on farms in Greene and Clark counties. These latest arrivals were secured by the Greene County Labor Committee and farmers are urged to call the labor camp or the county agents office to secure these men.

The men work for 50 cents per hour and board themselves. They return to camp each night and take their noon day meal with them. Since it is necessary to employ them full time, requests for this help should be made well in advance to provide them steady employment.

STEEL AT WAR DISCUSSED AT FORUM MEETING

The part that iron and steel is playing in winning the war was described by Bennett Chappel, assistant to the president of The American Rolling Mill Company of Middletown at the Farm Forum, Monday evening at Gay's Banquet Hall. He stated that this is a sheet metal war and that within a years time the steel mills of this nation had caught up with and far surpassed the ten years head start of the axis nations in steel production.

The efforts of the county salvage committee was praised in providing scrap metal to the Middletown mill last spring when it was so badly needed. The Sugar Creek Twp. committee headed by Joe White, Jr. arranged the program. Vocal numbers were given by Mary Jane White accompanied by Linda Lou Haines. The October meeting of the Forum will be under the direction of the Miami Twp. committee, with Clark Meredith, chairman.

STATE WHEAT COMMITTEE PLEADS FOR MORE WHEAT

The Ohio State Winter Wheat Production committee composed of representative grain dealers, millers, farm organization representatives and others of the trade and allied interests met in Columbus recently and drafted a program to increase the acreage of Ohio wheat. They reported that there is an acute shortage of short winter wheat and recommended that all possible assistance and encouragement be given the Ohio farmer to plant a normal acreage of wheat this fall.

CHECK SEED WHEAT GERMINATION

Reports from a number of farmers who have made the germination tests on their seed wheat indicate that it might be well to run this test before seeding. The state seed laboratory reported germination of 67 to 70 per cent on two samples submitted from the county. Wheat testing less than 52 or 53 pounds will not likely give strong seedling plants and should not be used.

EARLY HOG MARKETING URGED

Since the price ceiling on live hogs removes any advantage in holding hogs for an upturn in prices, farmers are urged to market their hogs as soon as they attain adequate finish rather than to feed them for additional weight and finish. This appeal is made for the two-fold purpose of conserving feed grains and to bring about more uniform distribution of marketing.

With the spring pig crop 22 percent larger than last year and in view of the existing facilities for slaughtering and processing and the manpower shortage, packing houses may be overtaxed unless marketings are kept orderly and uniform from week to week.

HOG BASE PRICE

The present base supporting hog price as announced by the WFA is $13.75. This base is effective until September 30, 1944. The weight range protected by this price is from 200 to 270 pounds, however with growing feed shortages, producers are urged to market animals at weights from 200 to 240 pounds. On October 1, 1944, a base of $12.50 cwt on weights from 190 to 230 will go into effect.

U. S. FEED GRAINS

Based on recent crop reports, it appears that the national supply of feed grains for the 1943-44 will be 9 percent less than was available for the 1942-43 feeding season. This estimate includes corn, oats, barley, grain sorghums, caraway grain, and probable imports from Canada, and a slight increase in rye and wheat for feed. Grain consuming animals will be about 10 percent more numerous, so feed per unit may be 18 percent less than a year before. If the usual

Warren County Takes First Bond Honors

While Greene County was leading other counties in this district on percent of quota bond sales, Dayton, which had been down the list stepped up when one corporation subscribed for bonds or tax notes to the amount of five million dollars. Tax notes can be used to pay the corporation income taxes.

Monday Warren County reported it had exceeded its quota of $1,250,000 thus taking first honors.

The sales in this county now amount to $1,515,439.94 against a quota of $1,850,000.

Judge Frank L. Johnson, states only 1740 persons in the county have subscribed or purchased bonds in this campaign outside of those on payroll deduction plans and business institutions. Based on the county population this is a low percentage.

Many misunderstand the purpose of the bond campaign and have failed to subscribe or purchase the additional bond in addition to what is now being paid for.

Solicitors are urged to continue the campaign to aid in placing Greene County over the top on our quota. Industry and the financial institutions have done their part, now it is up to individuals to meet the quota.

Greene County cannot afford to lag behind in the Third War Loan drive.

"OLD CEDARVILLE" F. M. FORSTER

About 55 years before the writer was born, there was not a cabin in what we know as Cedarville Township. There were Indians and wigwags and panthers and bears and wolves and turkeys and long black snakes and coons and here and there an Indian trail. Four or five years after the close of the Revolutionary War a Company bought a tract of land known as the Symmes Purchase. It lay between the Big Miami and the Little Miami Rivers, from the Ohio river, and running north probably a hundred and twenty five miles. Cincinnati, founded 1788, is just west of the mouth of the Little Miami. As this river runs through Clifton, Cedarville Township finds itself in the Virginia Military Tract. This was a very large tract, running from the mouth of the Scioto and nearly two-thirds of the way to the Michigan line. The Government sold this land at about $125 an acre. When Cincinnati was founded there was probably not another settlement in the Symmes Purchase or the Virginia Military Tract. Those interested in these early days will find "The Buckeye Country" by Professor Harlan Hatcher (Ohio State University) a most illuminating history.

Who settled in Cedarville Township first? A hundred or more years ago there were a number of family neighborhoods, as the Barbers, Kyles, McMillans and the Jacksons. But who brought his team and wagonload first? It was Thomas Townsley. He bought 1000 acres about a mile and a half up what became the Columbus Pike. His wheels probably laid out in general the road which became the Columbus Pike. His 1000 acres lay on Massie's Creek. The large brick house is likely near the place where the original log house stood. The writer recalls Enos Townsley very well. He was, I think, a son of the pioneer. In the late 60s Enos built a frame house about a hundred and fifty yards above where the Crawford road leads off and probably within the original thousand acres. As I knew him he was strongly built and had a head of bushy white hair. In his old days he had a strong clear voice. How I know I was with Uncle Rolly Kyle who was bringing a load of sand from a pit about one third of a mile back. He had bought a new horse. When within about two hundred feet of the pit, she set all four feet down and would not move, not one little bit. Petting and coaxing, and calling endearing names had not the least effect. Mr. Townsley chanced to be in his side yard and called - Give her the hickory! The Kyles hardly knew which end of a whip to get hold of. All small boys know what ails them when two men green apples cause them to go around carrying their stomach in both hands. When horses balk you wonder what they would say if they could talk? Any way, after about twenty minutes the horse started just as if nothing had happened. The incident, with Mr. Townsley standing amid blooming roses, is clearly recalled, though more than seventy-five years ago.

Whether there was a stir among Kentucky neighbors before Thomas Townsley loaded his wagon is not known. If not, the word that went back caused hurrying here and there. Pull up stakes and come to Ohio and to Greene County, and don't stop going until you are in the garden spot of Cedarville Township. Get away from slavery! And it isn't so far, only about two hundred miles! Who got on the road first? The McMillans, Kyles, Jackson, Barbers, etc. Neighbors in Kentucky (this is a supposition) they settled in Cedarville Township. If not mistaken the Barbers settled just above Uncle Henry Kyles farm. They came with household stuff, plows and sharp axes. Some settled on 1000 acre farms. In those days one did not talk to his neighbor over the back fence. They took a day off and visited all day. Thus the news of the settlers would get around. Very few now know the borders of those big farms; and soon they will be in the County Records only. The character of those hardy pioneers is seen in this - They came to woods and woods and more woods, miles and miles in every direction, and a bit of timber. They built a bit of a cabin, and then cut away trees for a patch of ground for a garden of potatoes, corn and wheat. A mill to saw lumber was necessary. Massie's creek which ran through about the center of the township, and what became Cedarville, had unusually fine sites for sawmills. Suddenly at Main street the cliffs rise to thirty or more feet, and as if split open at almost uniform width and depth for over a mile down. This is a remarkable phenomenon.

CONVOCATION ANNIVERSARY SERMON SUNDAY

Dr. W. R. McChesney, president emeritus, has started his fifth year of association with Cedarville College when he delivers the sermon for the convocation exercises of the college Sunday at 8 p. m. in the Presbyterian Church. Churches of the village will join in the union service to honor the "golden jubilee" of the institution. The college is also starting its fifth year as an institution of learning.

Dr. McChesney began his teaching career at Franklin (O.) College in 1880. He served as president of Cedarville College from 1915 to 1940. He now is head of the department of Greek and philosophy and dean of the seminary. During his teaching career he has taught more than 4,000 students from twenty-two states. He has had five calls to standard colleges and one seminary but preferred to remain in Greene County. He was licensed to preach in 1895, and ordained the following year.

As a youth he worked his way through college in a cooper shop in the manufacture of nail and sugar kegs. He is a graduate of Greensburg Academy, Darlington, Pa., which once had as a student William Holmes McGuffey.

Dr. McChesney holds the degrees of A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. from Franklin College (now merged with Muskingum) the D.D. from Tarkio, Mo., and the L.L.D. from Cedarville.

Hayes A. McClean Is Granted Parole For Nov. 1

Hayes A. McClean, 74, former village marshal, who was sentenced to serve one to twenty years in Ohio penitentiary October 3, 1941 after being found guilty of manslaughter by a common pleas jury in the county, was among the thirty-three prisoners granted paroles by the state parole board in Columbus, Tuesday. His parole is effective November 1.

The former marshal was charged with the fatal shooting of Wallace Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Collins, on July 3, 1941.

Miss Vera Mae Fields President W. A. A.

Vera Mae Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Fields, this place, has been elected president of the Women's Athletic Association for the coming year at Capital University, Columbus. Miss Fields is a Senior in Commercial Education and will complete her course in January.

Gas Rations Cut For Speeders

The gasoline panel of the Greene County War price and ration board at a hearing Tuesday night, lifted the "A" books of two speeders for thirty days and supplemental rations were suspended for the same length of time for two more. Mann Chatterjee, Yellow Springs and Edward Yeator, Cedarville, were lifted. Supplemental gas for Rexford F. Byrd, Fairfield, and Phillip R. Moore, Xenia were suspended.

Chicken Owners Now Protected By Law

The new state law identifying owners of chickens, turkeys, and other fowl killed by dogs was in effect last Friday. The law previously has protected owners of sheep, cattle and horses killed by dogs.

Loss of all such stock destroyed by dogs must be reported within 48 hours and must be viewed by the dog warden. Owners are then given 60 days in which to file their claims with the county commissioners for damages. The damage claim under the law cannot exceed $10 to any one person. It is expected that the new law will cause an increase in the cost of dog tags in every county to create a fund to meet damage claims.

"A" GAS SIGN UP

Motor car owners will be called up on early in October to sign up for "A" ration books. The distribution will be made from the school building according to reports.

WE ARE TOLD WE NEED MORE WHEAT

From two different farm organizations we get a new angle on the wheat situation. From one, the AAA, farmers in the past have been harrassed and threatened with court action and civil suits, if they overplanted a wheat crop. During those same years Canadian wheat was being imported into this country. From another source, the Ohio Farm Bureau, we get a statement on the wheat situation. A third group, the grain dealers and millers are appealing for more wheat on a patriotic plea.

The Washington muddlers that never grew an acre of wheat could not have done a better job of bringing on a food shortage that has been forced not only on the farmer, but upon the nation as a whole. The situation not only with wheat but most everything else will without doubt get worse before it gets better. With a government ceiling on wheat the mills are now offering fifteen and twenty cents a bushel more than the ceiling price. Owners of wheat will probably get $2 a bushel for wheat before spring, regardless of any government action.

The shortage of feed of all kinds compared with the number of livestock on farms, is really critical. This caused most farmers to feed their wheat in the place of corn. In as much as the ceiling on wheat in most cases does not permit a reasonable profit to the grower, there is a great indifference among farmers whether they grow the usual acreage or not. Again, the New Deal has denied the farms the necessary harvesting machinery in the face of a labor shortage, yet several thousand tractors and other farm equipment was sent during the year to England under "lend-lease."

With the corn crop somewhat late in maturing this means much corn will not be cut for wheat seeding as labor for this work is not plentiful. The shortage of fertilizer and the high price will have a tendency to hold down wheat acreage in many cases.

The AAA has announced a mythical wheat acreage for the nation. It means nothing for each and every farmer can plant as much or as little as he desires without threat of prison sentence. The announcement only is proof the AAA salary list is endeavoring to show the income taxpayers they are on the job, sitting in swivel chairs doing nothing toward the cause of producing more food.

If the city folks do not have bread it will be no fault of the American farmer. The farmer will without doubt get his bread for his eat first in all cases, except in Russia, where the government takes everything from the farm under Communist rule or dictatorship, best exhibited by the New Deal as democracy. The Russian farmer must stand in line to get his rationed food. How far are we from Russia?

LOOKING FOR SOMETHING—YET FAR DISTANT

Congress is going through the act, or has done so by the time this reaches the reader, of passing what is known as the "H. Oxford" or Fulbright resolution to be a guarantee we will join in a movement or guarantee there will never be another war. You will recall the First World War was to end all wars, so Woodrow Wilson once announced. The performance this week is nothing more than a gesture, just as was the once famous League of Nations. And all this at a time when not a living soul can even predict what the outcome of World War No. 2 is to be. The Fulbright bill is being branded a British scheme, aided by the New Deal, and a not understanding public.

There is never harm in one expressing his or her intentions. The Christian Science Monitor refers to the resolution: "By its acceptance or rejection the House of Representatives can make clear to a world listening half-hopefully, half-skeptically for the American voice, whether America has learned any of the lessons of the years between wars."

The resolution is being branded as a pure British movement, sponsored in this country by an organization of Oxford, England, alumni, Fulbright being credited as being one of them. It has been suggested that the Dies Committee should make an investigation of this movement, which easily could be one to sell America "short" to the world. To most people the resolution is nothing more than a substitute for the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill proposal now resting in a musty pigeon hole somewhere in Washington. The more the people hear of this proposal the more certain they are they want little of it. The same in time will be said of the Fulbright bill because the public is about fed-up on British dictation, the use of the New Deal as a carry-all to once more place America under the domination of England, regardless of the fact it took the Revolutionary war to break England's grip on the throats of a people that left her shores seeking religious and political freedom.

We have little or no confidence in these peace proposals because they are all backed by international politicians who seek to conquer world trade, regardless of any representation that is made publicly or private. The present World War started between England, Germany and Japan for economic supremacy and the bill of particulars was sold to Franklin D. Roosevelt when the King and Queen of England paved the way for British dominion-with our aid. You will probably recall the famous Churchill pronouncement to the United States: "You give us the implements and we'll do the job." Compare the time and the Churchill utterance with events of today.

The British are determined to tie the U. S. to the Lion's tail. England is as fearful of the future from Stalin after the war as she was of Hitler following the first bombing of the Empire. The play today is to make America the world constable and place her sons in arms through the world with Churchill as chief of police under Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the World.

The discussion of war and that of peace and especially what the international politicians call "enduring peace" is apt to mislead not only our own people but nations. War is the product of greed and selfishness as man wills. We have always had robbery and murder in defiance of both moral and civil law, yet society is repellent against both. Just so will we always have wars. History, from the days of the Christian era, has its own record of wars. You cannot expect war to be wiped out as long as man ignores the teachings or disregards the law of laws as laid down by the "Prince of Peace."

City folks must not be getting the kind of meat they want in the old dairy cows and grass fed cattle from the ranges. A Springfield lady in a local store that we had never seen before, said it to a group that Cedarville was fortunate in having good meat. She had made her fourth trip here in as many weeks to lay in a supply. The mere idea of meat ration stamps hardly takes the place of good meat.

While buzzing around one hears many things and oftentimes friends do us a favor of giving a tip. Following a story that had been in circulation we left it side for two weeks to see if the Democratic press of the state would not pick up the "scop." Just would not pick up the "scop." Just suppose you had a son in the service and word came of his death, whether in camp or across the water. In time the boy arrives, labeled, "Under no Circumstances Must This Boy Be Opened." Such a sign would arouse the curiosity of all, let alone the parents, then supposing you found the body in soiled uniform, not embalmed and dirty boots, what would be the shock to the parents? A fine topic for a congressional investigation and a glorious opportunity for the New Deal Democratic press to offer opology. These are embarrassing days for the Democratic editorial apologizers of New Deal bureaucrats.

How hunters are to get shells for the pheasant and rabbit season is bothering those who engage in that sport. The WFB has lifted the ban on several million shells for hunting but when the order is examined farmers have the first call to get shells to kill rodents. The city hunter will be out of luck under the New Deal order.

The new auto liability law is to hit the class of motorists that drive in a careless manner and damage other cars, beside create injury to innocent drivers. If a court judgment is secured where there is no liability insurance, the driver can be denied a license for three years. If convicted of driving while intoxicated the driver can be denied a license for five years. It is the first time Ohio has placed a heavy hand on such violations.

One of the tragic waste depots of the New Deal is the enormous amount of merchandise of all kinds in storage at the CCC camp near Yellow Springs. We are told there are stoves, stove pipe and scores of things the public is in need of for winter. Considerable of the metal stock is rusting and soon will be useless. The same can be said of the government ware houses for Patterson Field tells a like story. The New Deal has over purchased in most every line even to galvanized roofing that is said to have been in storage for two years. A congressional delegation visited an eastern depot and found so much goods in storage even the congressmen got excited. For instance there was carload after carload of canned pineapple. The same for other fruits and vegetables as well as dried fruits. It made no difference whether it was axle grease or horse shoes the purchase of everything was said to be out of reason and had robbed the public of needed goods. The commandant in charge of the Eastern depot admitted the new crop would be on before the old would be moved. The same can be said for paper stock. We are told by a paper salesman he can place his hand within an hour of a car load of writing stationery that has not been used and has been in the warehouse for two years or more. Is it New Deal stupidity or ignorance?

Little is known yet as to the rumor that Gen. George Marshall, now in command of American forces, is to be "kicked up stairs", and assigned as world boss in the Roosevelt-Churchill scheme to control the world. No official announcement is forth-coming as yet. Reports in Washington indicate there has been friction between government agencies over the report that Marshall expressed himself as determined to stand for America first. By placing Marshall in the so-called "world command", with headquarters in London, his hands would be tied. We wonder if it is "America for Americans" in Washington.

Gen MacArthur, in command of the Pacific, is another that is for America First-but he must play second fiddle in the Roosevelt-Churchill drama. He has continually asked for airplanes and forces to make a direct drive on Tokyo, for the purpose of terminating the war in short time and thus save the lives of our boys now suffering in the infested jungles. MacArthur is tired of making an island to island play when they should be directed from Washington to get in the fight proper. Sen. Chandler, D. Ky., wants MacArthur placed in full command with all the backing necessary. New Deal plans are for stretching out the war until after the next presidential election regardless of the cost in lives or money.

Motorists can get ready for a real surprise if our grapevine report of the gasoline situation proves true sometime after the first of October. We hear the filling stations are to be rationed under government order, to a fraction of their sales as of May 1943. The station must then ration the gas to motorists to keep within his daily quota, which according to the report would close all stations at least three days a week. By this method the stigma of gas shortage is placed on the oil companies and not on the New Deal—if the public is foolish enough to believe what Washington bureaucrats put out.

But this is not all the story. Every one is to have his gasoline ration reduced even to the farmer and his tractor and the farm truck. Not enough farmers are staying at home and working according to the New Deal. Probably like the young fathers Roosevelt blackened last week when he said "too many fathers were lying around doing nothing", and should be in the army. All forms of trucking will find reduced gasoline allowance. You can have a handful of gasoline coupons and yet not be able to get fuel—with closed stations.

We are informed a Selma cattle feeder just recently sold around 90 head of fat steers that had been under feed for some time. The cattle were purchased last year or before the ceiling went into effect when feeders were high and the government was urging feeders and farmers to produce more meat of all kinds. This feeder has had his experience with high priced cattle feed and a low price for top beef. He shows a loss of $1,900 on his investment, not including his own labor. A large number of farmers in this section have cancelled their orders for feeding cattle this winter. No feeder can produce corn fed cattle against a price fixed for the range or grass run.

MOORE - ANDERSON NUPTIALS SATURDAY IN COLUMBUS

As the hands of the clock reached 7:30 Saturday evening, Sept. 18, Miss Bertha C. Moore, daughter of Mrs. Lattie Moore, 2301 Neil Av., and Mr. Benjamin C. Moore, 586 Miller Av., Columbus, and Dr. James M. Anderson, 700 N. Park St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Anderson of this place, took their places before the altar of the First United Presbyterian Church, Columbus, to exchange marriage vows.

The Rev. Robert H. Belton, chaplain of the Mt. Berry school in Georgia, read the ceremony before a candlelit altar decorated with gladioli, dahlias and pompon chrysanthemums. Huckleberry and pompons and cathedral tapers lined the aisle.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. S. J. Moore of Detroit, Mich., wore a gown of white duchess satin having a fitted bodice, V-neck-line, long sheath sleeves and a full skirt ending in a circular train. Bands of Chantilly lace were the only trimming. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a tiara of handmade flowers and she carried a prayer book showered with stephanotis and an orchid.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns of grayish taffeta with draped bodices, Javaliere necklines, bracelet length sleeves and very full skirts trimmed with rows of self cording. Their Juliette caps with brief black veils matched their gowns in color. Miss Margaret Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, carried an arm bouquet of bronze dahlias and yellow pompons with her gown of turquoise blue. The bridesmaids, Mrs. G. Clifford Shaffer, Mrs. George L. Wilson, Mrs. Robert P. Stone of Princeton, N. J., and Mrs. Don D. Hoffelt of Alliance, O., carried arm bouquets of rose-shaded dahlias and white pompons with their gowns of heather rose.

Dr. Charles Lee was best man and where were Dr. Homer Anderson, Dr. Charles Clark, Dr. Drew J. Arnold of Cleveland and Mr. Bennett McNeal of Verona, Ohio.

Before bidding adieu to her friends the bride changed to a traveling suit of American Beauty velveteen with brown accessories. The couple will make their new home at the Leafy Dale Apartments, 789 Dennison Av., Columbus, after October 1.

The former Miss Moore is associated with the Ohio National Bank. Dr. Anderson received his bachelor's degree at Cedarville College and is a graduate of the college of medicine at Ohio State University where he became a member of Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity. He is now internist at White Cross Hospital.

Height ..... 43"
Diameter ..... 19"
Weight 260 Lbs.

The "VICTORY" Radiant Heater is lined from the grate to the dome—with sectional fireclay linings, the oldest known fire retainer. The same material used in the cupolas and smelters which originally melt the iron.

$59.50

Complete combustion of fuel is obtained by use of a patented principle of primary air intake through "Lock Draft" in ash door and hot blast slots in linings—see diagram—and by intake of secondary air which enters fire chamber through the legs.

"Secondary Air" is automatically regulated, only enough air being drawn into the fire chamber by the fire itself, through the leg channels, to keep the gases burning at maximum efficiency. Loss of heat up the chimney is effected by using a draft control in the pipe, which holds the heat below the stack so that it goes into the room instead of up the flue.

The "VICTORY" Heater has been thoroughly tested and approved for use with all types of coal and operates perfectly with soft coal, hard coal, lump, slack or coke.

For 1944 Pension State Seeks Refund

The division of aid for the aged, department of public welfare of the state of Ohio is plaintiff in a suit for $2,044.48 filed in common pleas court against Ruby Mago, as administratrix of the estate of Fannie Harris, late of Jamestown.

The petition claims Mrs. Harris received this amount in old age assistance from October, 1935 to May 1943 which represents a preferred claim against the estate. The plaintiff says the claim was rejected by the administratrix.

Washington Letter

plentiful supply of labor saving farm machinery be made available; and finally, that farmers, themselves, be freed of governmental regulation and interference and permitted to operate and farm as they deem best to obtain the greatest possible production.

Under the leadership of Chester Bowles, known as the General Manager of the Office of Price Administration, and who in reality has practically superseded Prentiss Brown as directing head of that great agency, many changes are being made in OPA procedure and operation. The Legal Section which has previously had the final say as to OPA orders, has been disbanded as such, and many of the 2,700 young lawyers employed therein face dismissal, while those remaining will be subordinate employees to those charged with the responsibility of administering OPA regulations. Under Bowles some of the spirit of "the public be damned" has already been eliminated from the OPA, and hope is being expressed that the good work will be continued.

ALONG FARM FRONT

grain rations are fed, the carryover of grain after the feeding season may be about half the average for recent years.

LAMB CROP OFF

The number of lambs in Ohio in 1943 is estimated at 1,201,000 head, according to Crop Reporting Service. This is five percent under the 1,259,000 head saved in 1942 and compares with the 1,336,000 head the ten year (1932-42) average. This year 84 lambs were saved per 100 ewes as compared with 88 last year. Ohio ranks second in the number of lambs saved in native states and ranks tenth for all states in 1943.

The notice is given that readers can keep the issues if they desire. The sketch is being written by Rev. F. M. Foster of Wood Ridge, N. He is now past ninety years of age and has a remarkable memory of boyhood days in this community.

"This War Will Become Bigger and Tougher . . . During the Long Months to Come"

Franklin D. Roosevelt

Italy has fallen—but the war is not over and you know it! Think of Berlin and Tokyo—think of the men dying at this moment.

Can we, you and I, afford to let them down—to turn their battlefront victory into a home-front defeat? Let's buy more War Bonds than ever . . . let's back up their victory with ours—the success of the 3rd War Loan!

There are battles coming—tough, bloody, hard-to-win battles—before this war is over. And it's the last battle that counts. We've got to back up our fighting men . . . we've got to buy War Bonds with every dollar, every dime we can scrape up.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT said it, as Commander-in-Chief:

"I say that we Americans will not be satisfied to send our troops into the fire of the enemy with equipment only equal to that of the enemy. We are determined to provide our troops with overpowering superiority of quality and quantity of arms and armaments . . ."

Our fighting men will do their job—it's up to you, personally, to keep their victories safe by buying War Bonds NOW with every dollar you can—not with what you'd ordinarily save or invest, but more—every bit more you can manage.
